Gen. Wilder.
We are glad to state that from private advices Gen. Wilder is slowly improving. He is at Rockwood for the present, but will visit Knoxville soon.

Cut His Head.
Mr. Isaac Keyes, while driving Rice's omnibus under shelter at the stable, struck his head on a cross beam, cutting a severe gash, which bled profusely.

Married.
At the residence of Mr. Jno. Hastings, by Rev. M. Johnson, Rector of St. James Episcopal Church, Port Gibson, Mississippi, Jan. 12th, Mr. C. M. BEARDS and Miss FLORA A. COOPER, daughter of J. D. Cooper, dec'd.

All persons having accounts with me for Dyeing, are requested to call at my shop on Clinch street, and settle before the 21st of February, as I shall close all business at that time.
jan18-30t. W. D. ROBINSON.

Gas Matters.
We understand that the gas post on the northwest corner of Main and Crozier streets will be changed to the southeast corner, so as to throw light on the bridge over first creek. There are several other changes that might advantageously be made.

The New State.
A correspondent in the Rogersville Journal is in favor of "cutting loose from Nashville" and "setting up a shop of our own"—i. e. he is in favor of a new State of East Tennessee. He makes a tolerably strong case.

Wholesale House.
R. S. Payne & Co., wholesale dealers in boots, shoes, hats, fur, trunks, &c., have marked down their goods and offer them at one price—as cheap as a good article can be sold for. They have an efficient corps of salesmen, and take pleasure in showing goods. In connection with this establishment is a retail department, for the benefit of city and country customers.

The Secret.
The mammoth wholesale drug house of Messrs. E. J. Sanford & Co., of this city, continue to do the largest drug business in East Tennessee. They have abundant capital, make their purchases on the best terms, keep always a full stock of all goods in their trade and can give to customers all the advantages of the Eastern markets. They are proprietors of several medicines of great popularity and are now selling them rapidly. See their advertisement in another column.

A Monster Feline.
On Monday night a huge cat was observed to enter the store of Messrs. Osborne & Powell, on Market Square. The doors were then fastened and several gentlemen called in to capture the animal. John Hudburg, being the only person present and his life likewise being insured, was put foremost in the pursuit. The cat was of an enraged red color, and was at length captured by turning a box over him. Mr. Hudburg volunteered to transfer it to a coop, but the feline, seized him by the thumb and bit him severely on the hand and arm. Yesterday Mr. Jehu Jones was rather venturesome and was also severely bitten. The cat is a Maltese and is supposed to be one that escaped from Mr. Sanford about two years ago.

Tit for Tat.
The Memphis local editors are sparing a little, it seems from the papers of that city. The Appeal local ridicules the enterprise of the Avalanche and says it consists of nothing but a few descriptions of balls and interviewing United States Senators.

The Avalanche annihilates him after this fashion:
As the "local" in question can do neither properly, either with credit to himself or his paper, or with satisfaction to his readers, he is more to be pitied than found fault with. "Tis not thy vocation, Hal."

Mr. John Richards.
This gentleman, whose death occurred last Saturday night at half past eleven o'clock, was born in Wales in the year 1796. His father was an extensive farmer and Mr. Richards remained on the farm until he reached manhood's estate, when he entered Drim Iron Works, near Swanzy. He came to this country in the year 1846, and settled in Danville, Pa., where he took charge of the Monitor Works and remained until he quit business.

He was the father of Messrs. David, Joseph and William Richards, now engaged in the Knoxville Iron Company, and came to East Tennessee in April, 1867.

He had been failing for two years, but was in his usual health until last Thursday, when he was taken severely ill with congestion of the heart and sank rapidly until the hour of his death.

His remains were interred in Gray Cemetery on Monday afternoon, funeral services being held at the residence by Rev. Mr. Thomas, the Welsh pastor, and at the Second Presbyterian Church, by Rev. N. Bachman, of which latter denomination he was a consistent member. A large number of friends and relatives followed his remains to the grave.

Some Suggestions to Advertisers.
Our WEEKLY, published this morning, contains No. 3 of our articles on East Tennessee, and is ready in our office for mailing. The circulation of our WEEKLY is increasing very rapidly, and goes now to almost every State in the Union. We have, in the past few weeks, increased our list very rapidly. Our articles on East Tennessee are received with satisfaction, and are to be the means, not only of profiting us, but of doing great good to East Tennessee.

We say, without qualification, that our WEEKLY is the best advertising medium offered to business men in East Tennessee. We print more reading matter than any of our contemporaries; our paper is made up with more care, and with a greater variety of matter, and is, therefore, more generally read. We refuse advertisements for our WEEKLY every day, preferring to charge a fair price for a few advertisements than to fill our space with all that come, at the expense of reading matter for our readers.

We ask but reasonable prices for space in our DAILY and WEEKLY. We sometimes are told our contemporaries advertise lower. If so, it is but fair, for we claim for the CHRONICLE a superior circulation. Our paper is a better medium for advertising, for it is read more than any paper in East Tennessee. A paper is valuable as an advertising medium not only in proportion to the number of its subscribers, but in proportion to the number of its readers. The paper giving the most news, and presenting it most attractively, is the paper most read. This superiority we claim for the CHRONICLE, and it is capable of demonstration. The most judicious advertisers in the city have found it so, and have so reported to us. All we ask from the doubting is a trial.

The demand for real estate in the city, noticed last week, continues, and several contracts for the purchase of city property have been closed. There is, however, no advance in prices, but rather a concession for the sake of cash sales.

Minor Locals.
The river is still rising.

Blow-guns are favorites with boys now, as playthings.

Two arrests were made yesterday. The usual fines were assessed.

The pupils at the Deaf and Dumb Asylum enjoyed a game of base ball yesterday.

The weather turned colder on Sunday and has remained so up to this writing.

There is a gentleman in this city who uses a $20 gold piece as a paper weight.

Considerable quantities of wood have been floated down the river within the past few days.

A defunct pig "might have been seen" on Prince street yesterday, between Asylum and Reservoir.

We understand that Mr. M. V. Bridwell has decamped to Kentucky, and is now rustating in the blue grass region of the dark and bloody ground.

State Items.
The construction of the Nashville custom house will be commenced at an early day.

The Mississippi and Tennessee Railroad paid to the Comptroller last Friday $3,000, in bonds and past due coupons, a part of its January interest.

Mayor Edwin Hickman, formerly Mayor of Memphis, died recently in San Antonio, Texas. He is said to have been born in Nashville in 1785, just after the close of the revolutionary war.

COMMERCIAL.

Knoxville Wholesale Market.
Review of the Produce Market for the week ending January 17, 1871.

COMBATED BY J. W. GAUT, MARKET SQUARE.
KNOXVILLE, January 17, 1871.

During the past week an active demand has prevailed for corn and oats, and some inquiry has been made for bulk meat and bacon. The general trade in produce promises favorably. But one difficulty presents itself: Many of our producers are in the habit of watching the market, and when they see an active demand prevails for any article of produce, they at once become speculators, &c. they hold for higher prices, forcing the trade to pay more, at the expense of much hard labor and at a considerable outlay of money.

Under the influence of the above, the market has become somewhat speculative, and the price of produce has advanced. The orders are either delayed or filled at prices above the views of Southern purchasers, and they are dissatisfied and withdraw their orders. Very soon we report a dull market—no demand—and there will be no demand again until we can work prices down as far below their actual value as they were above under the holding up policy. Now, who is the sufferer in the end?

Would it not be better for the farmer to get a fair market price for his produce, and put his grain, bacon, hay, and in fact everything he has to sell, at his own price, and let the market take care of itself? We would not be understood as dictating to the farmer, much less for him to be governed by our opinions in selling his produce to us. It is the principle we complain of. The practice of holding for higher prices when there is no reasonable probability for an advance equivalent to the loss by depreciation of weight and the interest on the money, has, as it will continue to do, depressed trade and caused a scarcity of money, when it should be plenty, and nobody has made anything by it.
